rived from the election of their candidates for Sheriff, County Clerk, Common Pleas, Coroners, and Aldermen consolation for the defeat of Gov. Robinson. Gen. F. B. Spinola, who is one of John Kelly's mouth places, was confident that Tammany had defeated Tildenism, and demonstrated to the State Democracy that it could not succeed without the vote of Tammany Hall. The headquarters of the Republican State Committee in the Fifth Avenue Hotel were visited by a few politicians early in the day. They were reasonably contented with the result, although anxious about the fate of their candidates for State officers. The Democratic headquarters were closed for the season, and women were at work with brooms, soap, and

Two powerful shurch organizations went to work for him early in the canvass, and continued at work until the close of election day. These were Plymouth Caurch and Talmage's Tabernacie. The former was enlisted for Mr. Howell because of the relations of his organization, and the latter was enthusiastic for Mr. Howell because of his conspicuous friendship for Dr. Talmage. The two churches represented in their februs between S.000 and 4,000 votes. The vote for Mayor by wards is as follows:

GILBERT AND SULLIVAN.

THEIR ARRIVAL IN NEW YORK EARLY YESTERDAY MORNING.

Talks with the Joint Anthors of "Pinafore"— The New Opera on which they are Work-ing-How the Two Work Together. Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan, to whom the public is indebted for "Pinafore," arrived in New York yesterday in the steamship Bothnia, after a fairly smooth voyage of ten days. A few personal friends met them on the pier. Mr. Gilbert joined his friend, Mr. Frederick Clay, the composer, and drove to the latter's rooms in Waverley place. Mr. Sullivan went to the house of Richard Suydam Grant, the banker. Yesterday afternoon, in Mr. Clay's pleasant parior, a ruddy-faced gentleman, tall and broad-shouldered, heartly greeted the reporter. Mr. W. S. Gilbert, author of "Pinafore," "Engaged," "Dan'i Druce," "Pygmalion and Galatea," and many other dramas, is 43 years old, though he looks nearly ten years younger. His hair and whiskers, originally light brown, are now sprinkled with gray. Mr. Gilbert's fore-head is broad and high, the eyes gray, the nose straight. He wears a moustache and close-cut side whiskers. He look, and talks like a thorough Englishman. In height he is nearly, if not quite, six feet, and well proportioned. He has been said to be cynical, and not always sweet tempered, and so very democratic as to be considered in England eccentric. Yesterday he was simply a very jolly and entertaining Englishman in velvet smoking jacket and slip-

SLAVERY IN CUBA.

Provisions of the Bill for its Immediate Abo ittion-Economic Reforms.

HAVANA, Nov. 5 .- The Government has received a despatch from Madrid saying that a bill to settle the slavery question is being prepared and will soon be submitted to the Cortes. It will provide for the immediate abolition of slavery, but the freedmen will remain for a certain time under the patronage of their former masters, receiving wages. After this the freedmen will be under obligation to work under contract, or follow some avocation under the protection of the Government for another term, at the expiration of which they will acquire civil and political rights. The Government will secure the fulfilment of the obligations regarding work by the passage of a vagrant law. This bill is considered to fulfil the law of July 4, 1879, taking care for the preservation of order and obliging the freedmen to work.

iaw of July 4, 1870, taking care for the preservation of order and obliging the freedmen to work.

Madrid, Nov. 5.—In the Senate to-day the Minister of the Colonies read the Government bill relating to the abolition of slavery in Cuba. He said slavery was contrary to the laws of nature, and could no longer be maintaned in a civilized world. Owing to the impoverished state of the exchequer it was impossible to pay indemnity to the owners of slaves, and the Government deemed it indispensable that the freed negroes should remain for a certain period under the patronage of their former masters, for by adopting this course the dangers which might ensue from the immediate and simultaneous emancipation of all slaves would be averted. The Government considered that the scheme for gradual enfranchisement was contrary to the law of 1870.

The Minister also announced that a bill embodying economic reforms to be introduced in Cuba would soon be presented to the Cortes.

GEN. GRANT IN GALENA.

Welcomed with Salutes, Music, and Oratory-

The General's Speech. GALENA, Ill., Nov. 5 .- The train bearing Gen. Grant and party reached Galena at 3:30 P. M. As the train came in salutes were fired, and the streets around the station were literally packed with people. Militia from Galena and neighboring towns was in line at the depot, and the band played "Auld Lang Syne" as Gen. Grant descended from the carriage with the Mayor of Galena, Gov. Cullom, Mrs. Grant. and the rest of the party following. The procession then formed and made a circuit of the town. Every building was decorated and elab-

AN INCOMPLETE ROMANCE

THE STORY OF A WOMAN'S ENDURING SELF-SACRIFICE.

Denying Herself for Years to Educate & Nicce as a Singer in Parts-Her Lonety Death in a Field Near Catakili Village. A despatch from Catskill announces the finding of the dead body of a woman in a field near that place on Tuesday. She is described as being about 45 years of age, dressed in black, and on the ground near her were found several receipts for bills of exchange on Paris, bearing the name of Mme. Vogelbach, and the signature of Henry Pischoff of this city. The body was taken in charge by Coroner J. A. Deane of Catskill. Mr. Henry Bischoff, who is a banker in the Staats Zeitung building, remomsered the woman. He describes her as a working woman, apparently a seamstress, but as being educated to a considerable degree, and very ladylike. She always dressed in black, and was, he thinks, a widow. She first came to his office in 1872, and purchased a bill of exchange on Paris for $25, payable to the order of Mme. Vogelbach. Afterward she continued to make these purchases regularly once a month, the bills being always made payable to the same order until Dec. 17, 1877, when she came for the last time and bought a bill for 122 france. The bills being always made payable to the same order until Dec. 17, 1877, when she came for the last time and bought a bill for 122 francs. The receipt for this bill was among those found near the dead woman. During these years Mr. Bischoff became much interested in the woman, and he learned from her that the "Madame" Vogelbach to whom alie thus remitted money was her niece, Miss Lillie Vogelbach of Philadelphia, whose parents were so poor as to be able to do but little for her. The girl had a fine voice, and a musical connoisesur, on hearing her sing, expressed the belief that if it could be educated abroad she would become one of the leading singers of the country. After this the girl's sole aim in life was to obtain a musical education, her aunt, in this city, became as anxious as herself that she should do so, and finally they together saved money enough to take Miss Lillie to Paris. This was in 1872, when she was 20 years of age. The director of the Conservatoire, in Paris, was so charmed with her voice that he had her admitted as a free pupil, and her progress was marked and rapid. Then her health falled, and for a long time she was forbidden to sing. At this both she and her aunt were in despair, but the faithful, hard-working woman would not permit her niece to come home. She worked harder and denied herself still more, that she might increase the allowance sent to the young singer, now that she was an invalid, and when health at length returned and the studies were resumed, no one rejoiced so much as the devoted aunt.

At length Lillie Vogelbach completed the course prescribed at the Conservatoire, and the time had come for her to make her debut. She appeared in a concert, arranged expressly for her by Adalina Patit, who had taken a great interest in her, and it was given in the Paiace of the Elysée before President MacMahon and as select an audience as could be gathered in Paris, it was a triumph for the debutante. She was praised by Parisian and English journals, and her future seemed assured. It was in
